Only commercial houses that have paid taxes for the privilege can do business through agents in Russia. Traveling men are also obliged to pay individual taxes for permission to sell goods as representatives of these houses whether they are domestic or foreign enterprises.

Surely any German soap comes to this country. England is Germany's best soap customer, and last year bought 2,250,000 pounds out of a total export of less than 5,000,000. In 1898 Germany's export of perfume amounted to $2,250,000, a gain of almost $500,000 over 1897.

Home demand absorbs almost all the street cars our builders can turn out, so that the export trade in this line has been temporarily abandoned. One or two export houses in New York, however, have been doing a lively business in second-hand horse cars, a large number going to Mexico.

A Mormon church was in course of erection in Beechburg, Ky., when a number of citizens assembled with the intention of setting fire to it. Learning that the building was insured, they determined that the Mormons should not claim money damages, so they deliberately chopped it to pieces, making each piece of timber so small that it could not be used again unless for firewood.

WOMAN'S MISERABLE DEATH.
Close of the Career of a St. Louis Levee Character.

Addie Saunders, a woman who had probably broken every one of the ten commandments, died in misery in a room in the rear of 313 South Third street at two o'clock in the morning. She was addicted to opium, craved whisky and often used laudanum. Starvation is said to have caused her death. It probably did, but not because the woman was unable to obtain food. She could not take nourishment, owing to the condition of her stomach, caused by drugs and drinks. Her body was removed to the morgue. It was fearfully wasted. The morgue keeper said it would hardly weigh 40 pounds.

Addie Saunders had been a woman of the half world for a long time. She was 35 years old, and for years had lived on and near the levee. She was a typical levee character. If she was ever married her acquaintances know nothing about it. She last lived with Martin Wunder, who works around the levee, and he was with her when she died.

Wander left the room shortly after the body of the woman was removed. He did not return all day. His neighbors and friends said he could not provide a funeral for the woman because he had no money. The remains will probably go to the potter's field.

The house in the rear of 313 South Third street is occupied by a motley aggregation of men, women and children. Most of the occupants have taken the drags of life and are disposed to look upon a stranger, entering their place, with suspicion.

It was learned that Addie Saunders had been an opium fiend for a dozen years. She was also a whisky drinker. When she had neither opium nor whisky, laudanum satisfied her. For several weeks before her death she had been on a debouch. As long as she could get opium, whisky or laudanum she did not care to eat. Food was offered her, but she repeatedly refused it. No physician was called in.

Several of the woman's neighbors heard her groans, and they realized that she was very sick. They knew she was battling against death, and that she feared it. Two or three of them went to her quarters. The woman lay on a filthy bed in a corner and her life was going fast. They watched her until she died, and then went out to tell a policeman about it. —St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

GREAT TOWER AT BUFFALO.

Structure That Will Grace the Pan-American Exposition.

Unless present plans miscarry visitors to the Pan-American exposition in Buffalo in 1901 will see a tower greater and more ornamental than the great Eiffel tower in Paris. The plan submitted provides for a beautiful structure, 1,152 feet in height. The complete dimensions of the tower are 400 square feet at the base and 1,152 feet in height. The elevators will have a carrying capacity of 10,000 an hour, for there will be 33 speed electrical "lifts," 16 running only from the ground to the first landing, which will be 225 feet above the ground, or as high as Bunker Hill monument.

From that elevation eight more elevators will start, and will rise to the second landing, which will be 450 feet above the ground, or as high as the most lofty of the Egyptian pyramids. There four other elevators will start and reach to the third landing, which will be 675 feet from the ground, and four more elevators will carry the daring sightseers from that point to an elevation of 1,000 feet.

Above that point there will be three more landings, and one elevator only will make the trip from the fourth to the fifth, sixth and seventh landings. It is figured that the journey from the ground to the top of the structure can be made in six minutes, including the four changes from one to another elevator.

From the four corner supports of the tower, at the base, each of which is 30 feet square, will rise arches 200 feet across and the same number of feet in height. These arches will support a great landing, containing 87,600 feet of floor space, and which will easily accommodate 20,000 persons.

At the second landing there is another landing with 25,600 feet of floor space, on the third landing the space is to be 12,100 feet and on the fourth landing the floor space will be 2,025 feet—the various landings, exclusive of the first great one, being large enough to accommodate 20,000 more persons, and the last landing will be an even 1,000 feet above the ground.

To build this great pile of ornamental steel work it is estimated that an expenditure of $800,000 will be necessary. Inasmuch as the Eiffel tower cost $400,000 more than that, and as the first year's business paid for the cost of construction, the men who wish to outfit Paris at the coming fair at Buffalo feel that the chances are bright for them.—N. Y. Herald.

MARQUIS DE LAFAYETTE.

He Was Only Twenty Years Old When He Joined the American Revolutionary Army.

No name in American history is associated with more admiration than that of the gallant Marquis de La Fayette. He was not by birth an American, but a Frenchman, and more than a hundred years ago, out of love for the cause of liberty and sympathy for the American colonists whom he believed to be oppressed by the English government, he left his splendid home in France and came to this country to help the patriots fight for their rights in the revolution.

He was born at the castle of Chavagnac, France, September 6, 1757, and when he offered his services to the American congress he was only 20 years old. Although so young and inexperienced, he followed the lead of the powerful families of France, and his influence at court, through his wife's relatives, as well as his own, was of the greatest assistance to us.

In offering his help to congress, he purposed to bear all his own expenses in the campaigns. Congress was poor, and his services were gladly accepted. He was at once given an appointment on the staff of General Washington, and the two great men, both of the noblest character and the most generous minds, became lifelong friends.

In 1824 he was given a public invitation to visit the United States, and his travels through this country were like a triumphal progress. Congress voted him a gift of $200,000 and 2,000 acres of land as a mark of appreciation for his services in revolution. He died in Paris May 24, 1834, and lies buried in a handsome tomb in the cemetery of Picpus in the Faubourg Saint Antoine—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

DOLL MAKES PEACE.

A Child's Plaything Once Upon a Time Kept the Indians from Warring with the Whites.

A strange story is told of how a child's plaything once had a soothing influence upon a warlike Apache tribe, and was the means of avoiding a serious war. It happened when Mr. Bourke was in Arizona with Gen. Crook. The general was trying to put an end of Apaches on the Colorado River, but could not catch them without killing them, and that he did not want to do. One day his men captured a little Indian girl and took her to the fort. She was quiet all day, saying not a word, but her black beads of eyes watched everything. When night came, however, she broke down and sobbed just as any white child would do.

The general began to comfort her, and then Mr. Bourke had an idea. From the adjutant's wife he borrowed a pretty doll that belonged to her little daughter, and when the young Apache was made to understand that it was her baby, she fell asleep.

When morning came the doll was still clasped in her arms. She played with it all day, and apparently all thought of ever getting back to her tribe had left her.

Several days passed, and as no exertions about the return of the purpose had been made by the tribe, they sent her, with the doll still in her possession, back to her people.

Mr. Bourke had no idea of the effect the benevolent act would have upon the Indians. When the child reached them, with the pretty doll in its chubby hands, there was a great sensation among them, and later on their mother came back to the post with it.

She was kindly received and hospitably treated, and through her the tribe was soon afterward persuaded to move back to the reserve—Cincinnati Enquirer.

YOU ARE A DEMOCRAT

and, of course, want a Democratic newspaper. THE CHICAGO DISPATCH is the Great Democratic Weekly. Newspaper of the Country. It advocates the readoption of the Chicago platform and the renomination of William Jennings Bryan.

There has never been a political campaign that will equal in importance that of the one to be fought next year. The Republican party, backed by the money power of this country and Europe, is alert and aggressive. Flushed with the victory of three years ago it will seek by every means in its power to maintain its supremacy.

Democrats must be up and doing. They must wage an unceasing war upon their enemies. In no better and more effective way can this be done than by the circulation of good, sound Democratic newspapers.

The publisher of THE CHICAGO DISPATCH, will send a copy of THE CHICAGO DISPATCH from now until Jan. 1st, 1901 for 50 cents. If you are not already taking this great political weekly, send in your subscription at once. You should not only do this yourself, but you should induce all your friends to join you. By a little effort you can easily raise a club of ten or twenty subscribers. An extra copy for club of ten.

THE CHICAGO DISPATCH is endorsed by William Jennings Bryan and other Democratic leaders. ADDRESS THE CHICAGO DISPATCH, 120 and 122 Fifth Avenue, Chicago, Ill.

DEMOCRATIC TICKET.

FRIDAY, NOV. 10, 1899—

Taylor made that speech a trifle too soon. He will not be Governor this time.

Gen. White has returned the compliment by capturing 2000 Boers and the British people are feeling somewhat better this week.

The election Commissioners of the various counties will meet this morning between the hours of 10 and 12 o'clock and begin the canvass of the votes cast Tuesday.

Christian County is all right in a fair election. The Republican majority in 1897 was 659 and in 1899 it is 732. We are not likely to see any more abnormal majorities under the present election law.

In the First Railroad district Dempsey's majority is too big to calculate. In the Second district, McClelland, Democrat, is elected by 2128. Wood, Republican, is elected in the Third district.

The Republicans as usual claimed everything Tuesday night. The press reports were doctored and Taylor's election claimed by 30,000. The Republicans laughed first but he laughs best who laughs last.

The Democratic victory in Maryland was complete. A Republican majority of 32,000 in 1896 gave way to a Democratic majority of 14,000. Wellington will be succeeded by Gorham in the United States Senate.

Complete but unofficial returns show a plurality of 50,364 for Nash, the Republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, over McLean. The vote for Jones will reach about 100,000.

The Republicans and their allies, enraged at their inability to manipulate the returns, are howling fraud in advance. Goebel has been elected and will not be counted out as Hardin and Bryan were. On the other hand every legal ballot cast for Taylor will be counted for him.

Ed Glass is now the most important official in Hopkinsville. It is reassuring to the public to know that he has a public career that has gained for him the good opinion of all parties. Holding the balance of power in the Council is the greatest responsibility that could have been placed in his hands.

FAUST AGAIN.

That Grand Old Scriptural Lesson to be at the Grand Opera House.

No play ever in our city has met with such universal approval as this grand master piece of Goethe, the German Shakespeare, and no portrayal of that weird Satanic Mephisto so indelibly stamped upon the minds of the large audience who witnessed the part taken by Mr. Porter J. White, and his return to the city with a show double its former size, of unsurpassing magnificence, with the grandest electrical and mechanical effects ever shown with a "Faust" production in this city. This is the local management personally guarantees. This is the only Faust Company that absolutely carries a full choir for the cathedral scene, the same being specially engaged by Mr. White from the Church of the Transfiguration, St. Louis, Mo. The Detroit Free Press of recent date says that the beautiful rendition of the Drinking Chorus in the grand opera, "Faust," by Mr. White's magnificent quartette, was the most impressive of anything ever heard of that nature in Detroit, and alone well worth the price of admission. Mr. White is the only one playing this play under his own name. Other companies are out purporting to be this and that, and only using the names of reputable stars to further their personal interests, caring little for the daily sacrifices they are making of the hard earned reputation of Mr. Morrison, who well deserves to rank at the head of his class. Unlike those spurious attractions above mentioned, Mr. White personally superintends his production and appears at every performance. One night only at Holland's opera house Thursday, Nov. 16.

THE BASHFUL THINGS.

Admiral Dewey and Mrs. Hazen Concealed the Date.

Washington, Nov. 3.—A marriage license was to-day issued to Admiral Geo. Dewey and Mrs. Mildred Hazen.

The application for the license was made by Lieut. Harry H. Caldwell, U. S. N., Admiral Dewey's secretary, in person. The information furnished the Clerk and set forth in the license is that Admiral Dewey is sixty-one years old and his bride-elect forty-three; that both are citizens of the United States and that in the case of each party there was one former marriage. To these statements Lieut. Caldwell was required to make oath.

It is stated this afternoon that the wedding will take place on Tuesday or Wednesday of next week, though neither the Admiral nor Mrs. Hazen will give the exact date.

SHOT WAS FATAL.

Mason Surrendered and is Lodged in Jail.

Henry Gaither, the negro who was shot by Jack Mason, also colored, at Gracey Sunday, died at an hour Tuesday morning. Mason surrendered to the authorities at Gracey and was lodged in jail there Tuesday afternoon. His examining trial is set for Friday morning, Nov. 17, before Judge Cansler.

The Baptist Meeting.

The meeting at the Baptist church is still in progress, and the interest is increasing with each service. Evangelist Williams is an earnest and impressive speaker. The meeting will continue for several days longer.

Meeting At Trenton.

A protracted meeting began at the Christian church in Trenton last night and will probably continue for ten days or more.

OPERATES ON LIONESS.

Ionian Oculist Removes a Cataract from the Eye of a Beast with Complete Success.

Prof. Gustave Pisenti, of the University of Perugia, Italy, has lately had a thrilling experience in extracting a cataract from a powerful lioness about three years old. The animal was placed in a suitable cage in the middle of the menagerie, and the first difficulty was the administration of an anaesthetic.

The animal was so fierce that the cage was filled with cotton wool and a large packet of guaze impregnated with chlorform was placed in the cage, the door of which was then closed with a shutter. In about a quarter of an hour a reconnaissance was cautiously made, and the illustrious patient was seen lying stretched out and apparently in a condition of deep coma. She was then removed out of the cage and bound and gagged.

She was then placed on a table, but before the operation could be begun she suddenly awoke and struggled violently, rolling on the floor, where the medical men, "with admirable coolness, but not without intense emotion, which might easily be seen in their countenance," held her while Prof. Pisenti, with the aid of ether, freed her head while the animal's head was wrapped in a towel steeped in sulphur ether.

The lioness, however, managed to free herself from the gag and partly from her bonds, and gave a roar which made the majority of the spectators beat a hasty retreat. But the ether overcame her, and Prof. Pisenti, with great pluck, dragged her into the cage, where he extracted a coup de grace, which given in a measure of another packet of guaze steeped in chlorform.

The beast's head was pulled out through the door of the cage and securely held in position. Prof. Pisenti then operated with brilliant success. A curious feature of the scene was the excitement produced among the other animals—zebras, bisons, leopards, wolves, hyenas, monkeys, etc.—in the menagerie, who all inhaled some portion of the anesthetics with which the air was saturated.—N. Y. Journal.

ELEPHANTS FEAR HIM.

Newfoundland Dog Makes the Immense Creatures Behave Themselves Day and Night.

Visitors to the Central park (New York) zoo during the past few weeks have been surprised to see a Newfoundlander dog chained in one of the elephant cages, living in apparent peace and contentment.

Everyone wants to see the great elephant, but her companion with a great sweep of her trunk, and crowds frequently gather about the care, expecting a battle, but the dog cats and sleeps without being molested.

The secret of this strange companionship, which no one ever guesses, is that the dog Prince is really the master of the household, and the elephants live in constant fear of him.

More than once occasion Prince has succeeded in quieting the great beasts when the keepers were powerless to master them. Elephants are natural.

Keepers say that the dog is a natural born leader.

If you are suffering from drowsiness in the day time, irritability of temper, sleepless nights, general debility, headache, and general want of tone of the system, use HERBINE.

You will get relief and finally a cure.

LOCAL RESULTS.

and inspectors were admitted accordingly to law.

IN HOPKINSVILLE.

Democrats Elect Half of Their Council Ticket.

On the face of the returns in the city election the Democrats elected three Councilmen--Dalton, West and Fowright. Tibbs was defeated by 22 votes in the First ward, Ware by 2 votes in the Second and Wall by 6 in the Sixth. The last two contests were conceded to the Democrats at the close of polls, but the ballot box developed a surprise in the count. There is talk of contesting all of these wards.

IN PEMBROKE.

Red Hot Contest For Municipal Officers.

Pembroke had a close and exciting contest for town trustees and marshal. "The Old Board" of five members was re-elected. Only one independent candidate ran for trustee. J. M. McGlothlin, marshal on the old board ticket, was elected by a majority of 3 over J. E. Jackson. The vote was on this office 54 for McGlothlin, 51 for Jackson and 29 for Wm. Milburn. In North Pembroke precinct, carried by McGlothlin, the city ballots were put into the box with the stubs attached or folded in them and Jackson is talking of a contest on that ground.

GRACEY ELECTION.

Only One Ticket Voted on the Ballot.

Gracey had a very tame city election, with only one ticket running. The trustees elected are R. L. Stevenson, J. P. Meacham, J. M. Francis, Gipp Watkins and F. O. Wilson.

SCALCHI COMPANY.

High Class Opera on Tuesday Evening Last.

The Scalchi Company's appearance here Tuesday night was the principal musical event of the season. The concert was something far ahead of entertainments usually heard in small cities. The members of the company are all artists in their line. The music rendered was very fine and the applause was very generous. Especially did Mme. Scalchi's singing greatly delight the large and cultured audience.

TWO BURGLARIES.

Stores at Beverly and Howell Broken Into.

The store of Ben Whitlock at Beverly was broken into Tuesday night and $6 in money and a lot of clothing were taken.

On the same night the store of Mr. White, at Howell was also robbed.

The windows were cut into and unlatched.

Death Near Pon.

Harriet Bradley, an aged colored woman of near Pon, died Tuesday of Bright's disease. She was 63 years old.

IN OTHER STATES.

Republican gains, although the vote is much lighter than then. The indications point to Republican gains in the lower house of the Legislature.

IN TEDDY'S STATE.

Republicans Gain Assemblymen and Municipal Officers.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 9.—The result of the election in the state shows Republican gains in Assemblymen and a gain of municipal offices in many of the cities. In Albany, which is normally Democratic, only three Democrats have been elected on the city and county tickets, and the Common Council is Republican.

In Troy the Mayor-elect is an Independent Democrat, elected to succeed Mayor Molloy, who is a member of the State Democratic Committee. In Rochester the Republican organization, headed by George W. Aldrich, elected their candidate for Mayor. In New York county the entire regular Democratic ticket was elected by pluralities averaging about 50,000. Of the assembly districts in New York county, the Democrats elected thirty-one Assemblymen.

NEW JERSEY

Seems to Have Left The Democratic Column For Good.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 9.—Revision of the election returns shows no change in the figures. The State Senate stands as last year, while in the Assembly the Republicans have gained seven seats, the division being 41 Republicans and 19 Democrats. The Senate stands 14 Republicans and 7 Democrats.

KANSAS REPUBLICAN.

Quiet Election And Gains For The Republicans.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 9.—The returns from the election in Kansas show Republican gain throughout the State. The Republicans have elected six of the ten Judges and the two Senators to fill vacancies, John T. Chaney, of Shawnee county, and C. C. McCarthy, of Jefferson. Neither had any opposition.

NEBRASKA VOTED STRONG.

Holcomb Fusionist Elected Judge By 12,000 or More.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 9.—Additional returns received this morning only served to emphasize the fusion in Nebraska at yesterday's election. The fusion majority will not be less than 12,000 and may reach 18,000.

SAN FRANCISCO

Elects a Democratic Mayor By 6,000 Majority.

San Francisco, Nov. 9.—The full returns of the municipal election had not been received this morning, but a close estimate places the plurality of James D. Phelan (Dem.), for Mayor, at over 6,000.

Martin Will be Senator.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 9.—The returns that the State Senate will be entirely Democratic, the only member outside of the regular party nominees being W. B. Shank (Ind. Dem.) from Isle of Wight. Martin will secure the nomination in the party caucus for United States Senator by a safe majority.

South Dakota Republican.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Nov. 9—Returns up to noon indicate a Republican majority in the state of not less than 10,000.

SHE PREACHES WELL.

A Sixteen-Year-Old Wisconsin Girl Speaks Quite Frequently from Her Father's Pulpit.

Melvin K. Sowles, a girl of 16 years, is the youngest woman preacher in the world. In June of this year she preached the opening sermon at the yearly meeting of the Baptist church, Honey Creek, Wis., and she has been granted an unlimited license to preach at the quarterly meetings of that church. Miss Sowles' home, says Leicester's Weekly, is at Prospect, Wis., where her father is in charge of the Baptist church. Miss Sowles has frequently, during the summer, spoken before the public. Before she was ten years old she evinced a great interest in theology, and, unaided, outlined a sermon. For the one at the yearly meeting—her first one given before a large audience—her text was taken from St. John's Gospel, thirteenth chapter, thirty-fifth verse. The theme was the Christian badge, "which is love, and should be worn upon the breast, over the robes, and be ever bearing for the tongue, should be carried in the hands, thus leading us to work for others; and it should incite the heart, will we be ready to run in the way of His commandments. The Christian badge, in this badge-wearing world, should enrobe our entire life." This was the theme of this young preacher's discourse, which was delivered with great simplicity and earnestness. After Miss Sowles graduates, next year, from college she intends to enter a theological seminary.

THE GINSENG TRUST.

An American Commercial Combination Controlled Entirely by Chinese Capitalists.

Among the many combinations of capital in the United States is one which absolutely controls a business amounting to $1,250,000 a year, and which is yet rarely if ever mentioned. Stranger still is the fact that the members of this trust are all Chinamen, hardly a dollar of American money being invested in the business. This Chinese combination is the only one for which there is no demand in this country. In China, on the contrary, ginseng is regarded as a sovereign cure for almost every disease. Before ginseng was discovered in America the root was worth its weight in gold in China. It is still expensive, as is shown by the fact that the Chinese dealers in New York, which is the headquarters of the trust, are paying six dollars a pound for the root. Ginseng is found in New York, Pennsylvania, Kent, Ohio, Indiana, and Michigan, and, in almost all the northern and central states. In the Kentucky and Tennessee mountains the ginseng diggers are a distinct type of people, and in the backwoods stores in those regions the "sang" root passes as currency. In many parts of the country it has become extinct, because it is dug before the plant has matured its seed.

The Queen Wore Whiskers.

It was pay day in a certain English bathhouse quartered on Natal. Private Smith, on receiving his month's "inputs," minutely inspected a particular coin, hesitated and concluded; then he saluted and addressed his officer: "Sir, I would like to tell you, Sir, that you've given me." The other looked at the coin. It was from the Transvaal and bore the likeness of President Kruger. "Oh, that's all right," he replied; "the money is quite good; it will pass in the antenae." Private Smith saluted again. "Of course, if you say so, it's all right, sir. But it's the same time I ever see 'er majesty wearin' whiskers."

Tuberculosis in Cats.

Cats are known sometimes to have tuberculosis, and they have in many cases been carriers of diphtheria and other of the ordinary infections directly and indirectly more than suspected.

Fascian Dog Cemetery.

The latest thing in company promoting comes from Paris, where a dog's cemetery has been floated with a capital of $20,000. The promoters are ladies.

Big Area of Vineyards.

It is estimated that about 400,000 acres of land in the United States are planted with vines.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great remedy, liver and kidney remedy. It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century, discovered after years of diligent research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, kidney, bladder, urethral troubles and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everybody, but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work, in private practice, among the helpless too poor to purchase, and in cases of pronounced kidney trouble, where all other remedies have failed, that a special arrangement has been made by all readers of this paper who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling all about the Swamp-Root and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty cent and one-half dollar sizes are sold by all good druggists.

THE SATSUMA BOWL.

By M. B. Williams.

"WHILE ON earth did you get that bowl?" Nelly asked to old Mrs. Graves. She and her friend, Ellice Davidson, had stopped at the old woman's cottage on their return from a long, hot walk to get a drink of her cool well water.

"As I was saying, I never expected to take out her one-tumbler Nelly's curious eyes noticed on the top shelf a china bowl covered with dust, on which she pointed eagerly.

"That chin bowl is it, honey? Why, it was my mother's before ever I was born, and she set great store by it. My father was a sailor, and he used to bring all kinds of queer things from his voyages."

"I know," said Nelly, "but that one bowl, and somewhere I've seen it, my mind that I won't have any good luck if anything happens to that bowl."

The two girls glanced at each other.

Good luck and poor old Mrs. Graves said far apart. She was very old and had survived all her family and friends. She picked up a wretched living by knitting and quilting. She owned the little cottage in which she lived, and with sturdy independence refused the charity of her neighbors, save during bad storms or calamities, which were frequent and severe. Every one pitied and respected the desolate old woman.

"Well, what do you think of this?" Nelly breathlessly exclaimed, holding out the bowl, when Mrs. Graves had gone to the well.

"I see an old china bowl," laughed Ellice, "but I have a question to put to you, and it has chipped at the edges."

"Nelly, glancing at the abject poverty of the room, the poor old woman's pain-drawn face, and for very shame at herself blushed deeply. But the bowl must be hers.

"Nelly, her heart beat high with delight.

"Certainly, Mrs. Graves," she said. "I meant what I said, and I'll give you what you ask for."

"Is it five dollars?" Nelly asked.

"'Tis five dollars," she said, hurriedly.

"I'll give you five dollars for the bowl, and here's the money." She took it out of her pocket.

"Five dollars!" exclaimed the old woman, in astonishment. "Miss Nelly, honey, I reckon it's because you want to give me the money. It ain't certainly because the bowl is worth half that."

"To me it is," Nelly said, hastily, with a sudden twinge of conscience, "and if I had more money I'd give it, but this is my last cent."

"Oh, I ain't afraid you're paying high for just a whim! Please bring me the bowl to-morrow, so I'll get it good-by before you take it away."

Nelly brought it to the bedside, and the tears were in the old creature's eyes as she took it in her trembling hands.

"It is all that is left of me of the blessed old time. When I look at it I see them all—father, mother, husband and children, all lying in the churchyard. It was my wedding present from father, when Nelly, I mean, was born. We were married. Everybody wished us health and prosperity, but father, he says: 'Health and prosperity are mighty good things, but I wish for my children honesty and fair dealing with all the world.' Yes, those were his exact words. It is hard to part with the last thing I have of him." She pressed it to her quivering lips with a sob, and handed it to Nelly.

"Don't think I'm not thankful to you, Miss Nelly," she said. "I'm sorry about parting with it. You have given me six times its value. God bless you! You're a kind heart. May God deal with you as you've dealt with a poor, desolate old woman!"

Nelly hurried home with her treasures, these words kept ringing in her ears and beating at her heart. Somehow she did not feel triumphant over the bargain as she had expected. But the next day she packed her bowl and took the first train for the city of New Orleans.

"Why, it's unique—it's worth its weight in gold, Nell!" her aunt cried, ecstatically. "Where did you pick it up? What did you give for it?"

"Oh, I got it at a bargain," was all Nelly would say.

There was a settling of Mrs. Davenport's mind as her daughter went to inspect the bowl. One of them, Mr. Wentworth, a gentleman of large fortune, whose collection of old china was one of the most costly in the United States, was enthusiastic in his admiration. "I never saw but one like this before, and it was in a private collection in Japan. It would be priceless if it weren't for that chip on the edge and the brown stain; but even as it is, it's worth $200 to any collector, and I'd be glad to give that or more to it, if you ever care to part with it, Miss Nelly."

That night, when Nelly lay sleepless on her bed, the words of old Mrs. Graves kept ringing in her ears. "And he says: 'I wish for them honesty and fair dealing,' and then the words so fervently spoken: 'May God deal with you as you've dealt with a poor, desolate old woman!'"

When she rose in the morning her mind was made up. She told her aunt the story, concealing nothing of her own cupidity.

"And now, aunt," she said, "I look upon myself as only the custodian of the bowl. I am going to get all I can for it, and make, so far as I can, the poor old woman comfortable for the rest of her life."

When it was found that the bowl was for sale, the bidding was fast and furious among the collectors; but none went higher than Mr. Wentworth, and it became his property for $300.

The story of the destitute woman who had owned it became known in the trade, and another hundred was added to the sum for her support. When Nelly told Mrs. Graves what had been done, the old woman exclaimed, in devout wonder: "My blessed Lord, that thou hast worked a miracle for me in my great need. I can't help crying, dear, blessed girl. The tears are tears of relief, for you have lifted me out of the depths!" Youth's Companion.

"What will you give Mrs. Graves for the bowl?" she asked.

"Oh, a fair price. She'll think it more than fair. But of course I'm not such a fool as to offer even a quarter of its real value. I could afford to afford it."

"Don't look so grave, as if I were going to swindle the old woman!"

"Pearl is only a pearl to one who knows its value, and to Mrs. Graves it is only an old, useless china bowl."

"But some one might give it its value to the poor old creature."

"Now, look here, Ellice Davidson," Nelly cried, red with anger. "you talk

as if I were going to take a dishonest advantage of the woman! Who would give 25 cents for it here? In this little out-of-the-way village the people have never even heard of Satsuma ware. Why, it will stay on that shelf till old Mrs. Graves is dead and buried, and then be thrown aside, or some old woman will keep her milk in it. No, I expect to get the bowl at a bargain, and my conscience won't trouble me if I don't."

Nelly was correct in thinking the bowl would soon be in her possession, in less than a week Mrs. Graves sent for her. She found the old woman in bed in a cold room, suffering terribly from rheumatic fever. On a little table by the bed was a tumbler of water and a plate of food, sent in by some pitying neighbor.

"Seems as if that turns my stomach,"

she said, pointing to the food, "but it was mighty good in Mrs. Ives to send it, Jenny," to a little girl who had come in, "won't you pick up some chips and make a blaze, so you can boil some water?"

"I'm not parching with thirst, Miss Nelly, I sent for you to tell you if you want that bowl I'll sell it. I'm too sick to work, and I haven't got a cent to buy medicine or firewood."

Nelly's heart beat high with delight.

"Certainly, Mrs. Graves," she said. "I meant what I said, and I'll give you what you ask for."

"Is it five dollars?" Nelly asked.

"'Tis five dollars," she said, hurriedly.

"I'll give you five dollars for the bowl, and here's the money."

"I'm not afraid you're paying high for just a whim! Please bring me the bowl to-morrow, so I'll get it good-by before you take it away."

When Nelly told Mrs. Graves what had been done, the old woman exclaimed, in devout wonder: "My blessed Lord, that thou hast worked a miracle for me in my great need. I can't help crying, dear, blessed girl. The tears are tears of relief, for you have lifted me out of the depths!" Youth's Companion.

"What will you give Mrs. Graves for the bowl?" she asked.

"Oh, a fair price. She'll think it more than fair. But of course I'm not such a fool as to offer even a quarter of its real value. I could afford to afford it."

"Don't look so grave, as if I were going to swindle the old woman!"

"Pearl is only a pearl to one who knows its value, and to Mrs. Graves it is only an old, useless china bowl."

"But some one might give it its value to the poor old creature."

"Now, look here, Ellice Davidson," Nelly cried, red with anger. "you talk

as if I were going to take a dishonest advantage of the woman! Who would give 25 cents for it here? In this little out-of-the-way village the people have never even heard of Satsuma ware. Why, it will stay on that shelf till old Mrs. Graves is dead and buried, and then be thrown aside, or some old woman will keep her milk in it. No, I expect to get the bowl at a bargain, and my conscience won't trouble me if I don't."

Nelly was correct in thinking the bowl would soon be in her possession, in less than a week Mrs. Graves sent for her. She found the old woman in bed in a cold room, suffering terribly from rheumatic fever. On a little table by the bed was a tumbler of water and a plate of food, sent in by some pitying neighbor.

"Seems as if that turns my stomach,"

she said, pointing to the food, "but it was mighty good in Mrs. Ives to send it, Jenny," to a little girl who had come in, "won't you pick up some chips and make a blaze, so you can boil some water?"

"I'm not parching with thirst, Miss Nelly, I sent for you to tell you if you want that bowl I'll sell it. I'm too sick to work, and I haven't got a cent to buy medicine or firewood."

Nelly's heart beat high with delight.

"Certainly, Mrs. Graves," she said. "I meant what I said, and I'll give you what you ask for."

"Is it five dollars?" Nelly asked.

"'Tis five dollars," she said, hurriedly.

"I'll give you five dollars for the bowl, and here's the money."

"I'm not afraid you're paying high for just a whim! Please bring me the bowl to-morrow, so I'll get it good-by before you take it away."

Nelly brought it to the bedside, and the tears were in the old creature's eyes as she took it in her trembling hands.

"It is all that is left of me of the blessed old time. When I look at it I see them all—father, mother, husband and children, all lying in the churchyard. It was my wedding present from father, when Nelly, I mean, was born. We were married. Everybody wished us health and prosperity, but father, he says: 'Health and prosperity are mighty good things, but I wish for my children honesty and fair dealing with all the world.'

Yes, those were his exact words. It is hard to part with the last thing I have of him."

She pressed it to her quivering lips with a sob, and handed it to Nelly.

"Don't think I'm not thankful to you, Miss Nelly," she said. "I'm sorry about parting with it. You have given me six times its value. God bless you! You're a kind heart. May God deal with you as you've dealt with a poor, desolate old woman!"

Nelly hurried home with her treasures, these words kept ringing in her ears and beating at her heart. Somehow she did not feel triumphant over the bargain as she had expected. But the next day she packed her bowl and took the first train for the city of New Orleans.

"Why, it's unique—it's worth its weight in gold, Nell!" her aunt cried, ecstatically. "Where did you pick it up? What did you give for it?"

"Oh, I got it at a bargain," was all Nelly would say.

There was a settling of Mrs. Davenport's mind as her daughter went to inspect the bowl. One of them, Mr. Wentworth, a gentleman of large fortune, whose collection of old china was one of the most costly in the United States, was enthusiastic in his admiration. "I never saw but one like this before, and it was in a private collection in Japan. It would be priceless if it weren't for that chip on the edge and the brown stain; but even as it is, it's worth $200 to any collector, and I'd be glad to give that or more to it, if you ever care to part with it, Miss Nelly."

That night, when Nelly lay sleepless on her bed, the words of old Mrs. Graves kept ringing in her ears. "And he says: 'I wish for them honesty and fair dealing,' and then the words so fervently spoken: 'May God deal with you as you've dealt with a poor, desolate old woman!'"

DIED FROM EXPOSURE.*"A Night In The Woods" Results Fatally.

Mr. Thomas J. Imeson, better known as "Thos. Johnson," a well known stone mason, died suddenly at the home of Mr. Wm. Coburn, four miles south of the city, Monday morning. Mr. Imeson, it is said had been drinking and spent Sunday night in the woods near Woodville, where he got off an I. C. train about 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. About midnight a colored man in passing through the woods heard groans, as if some one was in great pain. He made a search and found the old man badly chilled and made a fire for him. At daybreak Mr. Imeson made his way to Mr. Coburn's, where he had been making his home for years. On entering the house he sat down and almost immediately fell to the floor a corpse.

He was 68 years old and had been drawing a pension of $8 per month, having served in the Illinois Light Infantry during the Civil war.

The remains were interred in the Coburn grave yard Tuesday.

FORBES & BRO.*THREE FIRES

On Election Day, But the Losses Were Small.

Three fires occurred in the city Tuesday, but the loss in each case was small. About 4 o'clock in the morning a stable belonging to Hugo Hogen burned, together with a lot of corn and hay.

Later in the day, about 10 o'clock, the house occupied by Messrs. W. S. Harris and Henry Witty on the avenue, was discovered to be on fire, but the flames were extinguished in a few minutes. The damage to the property was not large and is fully covered by insurance.

The third alarm was given about 1:30 in the afternoon. A sofa in a house near the I. C. depot had caught on fire, but the piece of furniture was thrown out of the building and the flames extinguished.
